

Congress of the United States
Washington, DC 20510

August 11, 2016

The Honorable John Kerry
Secretary of State
U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street, NW
Washington, DC 20520

Dear Secretary Kerry:

We write to express concern about the U.S. Department of State's slow progress toward modernizing the 1964 Columbia River Treaty (Treaty).

We urged the Administration in letters dated April 15, 2014 and April 14, 2015 to prioritize modernizing the Treaty, and requested that the Administration initiate negotiations with Canada in 2015. Treaty modernization and negotiations with Canada directly affect the economy, environment, and flood control needs of communities we represent in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana along over 1,200 miles of the Columbia River and its tributaries.

Unfortunately, more than seven months into 2016 the negotiating parameters that are a prerequisite for formal negotiations still have not been approved by the U.S. Department of State. We have been told for many months that this document, known as a Circular 175, is almost complete. We note that the U.S. Entity Regional Recommendation for the Future of the Columbia River Treaty After 2024 (Recommendation) was completed in December of 2013.

The Columbia River plays a critical role in the economy and culture of each of our states, and potential management changes initiated through the Treaty could have major impacts far into the future. We are united in the belief that the Recommendation should be the basis for ensuring that cross-border management of the Columbia River better reflects the interests of the Pacific Northwest and the nation. The Recommendation, developed through close collaboration of the states, Columbia Basin tribes and federal agencies, outlines nine principles for a modernized Treaty, and reflects a multi-year effort to achieve regional consensus on complex river management issues among a diverse group including agricultural groups, power producers, environmental organizations, and users of the river for navigational and recreational purposes.

We respectfully request that the U.S. Department of State conclude the review process, approve the Circular 175 immediately, and press Canada to appoint a lead negotiator and engage in negotiations. We appreciate the willingness of the U.S. Department of State to remain in contact with the Pacific Northwest Congressional Delegation, and ask that when Congress returns in September we meet in person to discuss your progress and what we can do to ensure the Treaty progresses expeditiously.

We appreciate your taking our concerns seriously, and look forward to discussing this matter in person.

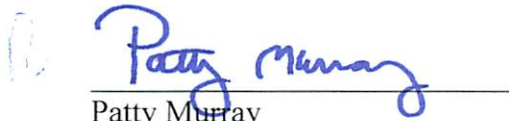

Sincerely,

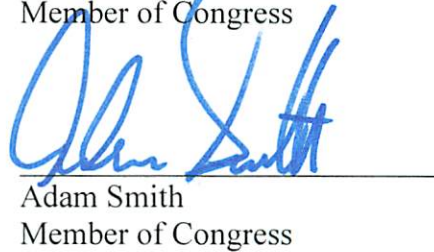

Maria Cantwell
